

Recycled Benches Project

Bluegrass Greensource's Keep the Bluegrass Beautiful (KBB) program works in 7 Central Kentucky communities to promote litter abatement and beautification.

KBB understands that place-making is essential to creating healthy, inclusive, and vibrant communities. This recycled bench project will positively impact the place-making of Woodford County in the following ways...

- Accommodate persons with disabilities and aging adults utilizing parks and walking trail spaces in Woodford County by providing opportunities to comfortably rest from physical activity.
- The opportunity to rest directly contributes to increased access and connectivity to community parks.
- These benches will aid Woodford County's efforts to become AARP Age-Friendly Community Certified by directly assisting aging community members.
- Ensuring the benches are made from recycled materials will promote waste reduction in the community.

Benches will be strategically placed in Big Spring Park, Huntertown Community Interpretive Park, Walter Bradley Park, and alongside the walking/biking trail that will soon be built along the bypass between Advanced Auto Parts and Douglas Avenue.

The benches will be made from quality, recycled materials that can stand the test of time. Little to no maintenance will be required and community members will be able to take advantage of the benches for decades to come.

We would greatly appreciate your vote!
